

Complex Terrorist Attacks – do your staff know what to do?

RPS Partnership are pleased to announce a one-day workshop for those who may get caught up in a Complex Terrorist Incident or face a lone attacker

RPS Partnership specialises in making training courses as realistic as possible, planning for the worst possible scenario. This course is specifically aimed at journalists, news teams, editors and news gathering organisations

Subjects covered

Complex terrorist attacks – two or more methods of attack on one target simultaneously

Understanding the methods of attack - weapons awareness and selection of cover

How to survive? Freeze - Flight – Fight

Run - Hide - Barricade - Tell

First Aid - “Bleeding and Breathing”

Domestic and international terrorism

Global Case studies – how attacks have happened and lessons learnt

Why RPS Partnership?

We have a diverse and unique team of qualified male and female consultants who are experts in counter- terrorism and weapons. They understand how terrorists and lone attackers work and have many years of experience studying them.

We have worked within UK counter terrorism teams and worked with European and US partners, so we bring a wealth of up to date experiences back into the learning environment of our workshop. We train european and international organisations and can share real time experiences and advice from their latest domestic and global terrorist incidents.

We have also trained clients in the following countries pre and post attack: Ivory Coast, Tunisia, Egypt, Mali, Burkina Faso, Senegal, Germany, Holland, Sweden and Belgium
